Now, is this a skein of wool or rather a little sheep?

Bestselling author Antje Damm's drawings, collages and photographs make up a surprising question-and-answer game, daring us to guess the things-behind-the-things. A picture book to keep you guessing, playing or just plain fantasizing – and not for children only either. What's that? Little children never get tired of asking that question.

Antje Damm's new book leads us a merry dance of pictures that leave you guessing what hides beneath. 22 objects that every child knows are transformed into animals. The pictures invite to a dialogue with the most diverse materials. By looking at them children may learn by and by to realize connections between various shapes and colours, and to devise picture puzzles of their own.

Antje Damm

Antje Damm was born in Wiesbaden. She studied architecture in Darmstadt and Florence, and now lives in a small village near Gießen, together with her family. After the birth of her two daughters she started writing and drawing picture books, with considerable success.
