

Scripts of the World

10+

Vitali Konstantinov

It is written

80 pages, fully coloured

24.5 x 33 cm, hardcover

€ 25.00

Rights sold to China (simplified Chinese characters), Belgium/The Netherlands, France, Italy, Korea, Romania, Russia, Taiwan (complex Chinese characters), Japan and Spain

Carve patterns on stones, shells and bones, drawings in the sand and messages on birch barks: Our ancestors already had the desire to use simple or even complicated characters to communicate with each other. And we imitate them until today! In an entertaining comic style, this book follows the development of over 100 writings from around the world, from the very beginning up to the digital age: from Ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics to the Greek alphabet all the way to today's emoji's and invented languages like Klingon.

@GerstenbergVerlag

@bookrightsgerstenberg

GERSTENBERG

www.gerstenberg-verlag.de

was born in Odessa and studied architecture, graphic arts, painting and history. He taught at the Bauhaus-Universität Weimar as well as he HAW Hamburg and gives countless illustration workshops and courses in Germany and Italy. As a freelance illustrator he collaborates with authors of fiction, non-fiction, children's books, and editorials. His work has been published internationally.

