

Money Makes the World Go Round

10+

Vitali Konstantinov

All the Money in the World

80 pages, fully coloured

24.5 x 33 cm, hardcover

Age 10+

€ 26.00

Rights sold to China (simplified Chinese characters) (Ginkgo), Belgium/The Netherlands (Clavis), France (Joie de Lire), Russia (A Walk through History), Taiwan (complex Chinese characters) (Locus) and Spain (Zorro Rojo).

A world without money is hard to imagine. Every nation has its own currency. And our everyday lives, whether we're at home, shopping or enjoying leisure time -- are marked by daily exchanges of money. But what is money really? Coins, bills, something stored in the bank? What about something complicated, like cryptocurrencies? Money is a huge subject. Who invented it, and when and why? What was trade like before money? And why is money divided up so unequally?

Ever since money has existed, there have been arguments about what it is. A means to an end, or an end in itself? A thing, or an idea? A blessing or a curse? There has been every possible explanation. And yet, money remains a puzzle.

With the help of this entertaining but informative graphic nonfiction book, at last we can begin to understand this puzzle and perhaps even become skilled money managers!

@GerstenbergVerlag

@bookrightsgerstenberg

GERSTENBERG

www.gerstenberg-verlag.de

Vitali Konstantinov

was born in Odessa and studied architecture, graphic arts, painting and history. He taught at the Bauhaus-Universität Weimar as well as he HAW Hamburg and gives countless illustration workshops and courses in Germany and Italy. As a freelance illustrator he collaborates with authors of fiction, non-fiction, children's books, and editorials. His work has been published internationally.

ulrike.bastong@gerstenberg-verlag.de