Winter is the best time of year to create and play! Whether an ice princess, a cork reindeer, or a pine cone angel: starting with simple materials like these you can make great gifts for Christmas or St. Nicholas. Nature provides lots of material for making things – did you know that you can make many things with snow besides a snowman? And if it's really cold, so much the better. Take frozen coloured water, and one, two, three: you've got giant ice marbles. Give it a try!

This inviting book with its child-friendly and colorful ideas for indoor and outdoor projects will lead to hours of song, play and crafting. Winter was never so fun!

Contents:

It's Getting Colder Outside . . .

. . . and we're cozy indoors! We're making fuzzy animals out of wool or felt, and for the mouse and bear families we're making a snug winter dwelling. Then a sleek and simple bird hotel turned feeding station. And for our children's room a lighted city!

Christmas Aromas are in the Air

For that, we need a chain of orange peels. To create more Christmas spirit we make Christmas trees out of felt or cardboard and little reindeer out of nuts or small wooden twigs.

A Christmas Star . . .

. . . can be made from felt, paper, branches or modelling clay. Then we can add homemade angels and crèche figures for more fun!

Hurray, it's Snowing!

When it snows, nature sends us the best creative material for snowmen and snow creatures. Snowflakes and snow stars are easy to make out of paper and cotton swabs. Or just like the legend, our homemade Frau Holle might make it snow by plucking out goose feathers!

Ice Magic

When it's icy cold, we can turn coloured water into giant marbles of ice. An ice palace, on the other hand, consists of just two milk cartons, and an ice princess and her beautiful horse out of just aluminium foil.

Winter Fun

A bear doll, hockey players from clothespins, and snowman sections from cotton balls: these and other games based on very simple materials can be made in no time at all!
