Antarctica ice is the coldest spot on Earth. In the middle of winter, an infant female penguin first sees the light of day. How good it is that it's safe and warm on Papa's feet! After a while, the little penguin learns to find her way around the ice desert: to move forward, to hunt, and to stay clear of predators. And one day the grown female lays her first egg.

Isabel Müller recounts the growth of a penguin in simple phrases and evocative pictures. And she highlights basic facts – about penguins but also the plants and animals of Antarctica, whose icy homeland has rich historical significance.

Isabel Müller, born 1984 in Baden-Baden, studied graphic design and illustration in Freiburg and Münster. Now a qualified instructor, since 2012 she has worked as a freelance illustrator in Berlin. "The Green Seaturtle" was her book publishing debut.
